

Division Head, Division of General Obstetrics & Gynaecology

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, University of British Columbia, is seeking applications for the position of Division Head of the Division of General Obstetrics & Gynaecology. This role is expected to be 0.2FTE.

The Division of General Obstetrics & Gynaecology is the largest within the Department. The role of Division Head is to hone the implement framework for a provincial Division that engages obstetrician/gynaecologists with general practices, including both urban and rural generalists.

The successful candidate will be an experienced leader who has diplomacy, vision, intellectual curiosity, and skills in collaboration and conflict resolution. Your expertise will strengthen the culture of innovation and best practice in the Division and Department, in an environment focused on quality and safety. Working collaboratively with an interdisciplinary team, you will contribute to the senior leadership of the Department.

You have proven leadership ability, with proven communications and interpersonal skills. You are capable of leading staff, problem solving, achieving results, and developing coalitions. You have proven experience in building positive partnerships with strategic partners.

A strong communicator and facilitator, you possess excellent mentoring abilities and have an enthusiasm for teaching and research. You lead by example by providing support to your Division members and developing strong working relationships through interprofessional collaboration.

Applicants must be eligible to hold a clinical or academic appointment at UBC.

This position reports to the Department Head, Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology.
