

Gynaecologic Oncologist

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology, University of British Columbia, is seeking applications for a full-time clinical faculty position in the Division of Gynaecologic Oncology, based at Vancouver General. The successful applicant will work as part of a clinical academic team providing Gynaecologic Oncology expertise and treatment to the Province of British Columbia.

The successful candidate will hold a Royal College Fellowship in Gynecologic Oncology or the equivalent. Research experience is desired but not mandatory. Preference will be given to a junior Gynecologic Oncologist (in the first 5 years of practice) with an interest in clinical trials and bio-informatics.

Reporting through to the Head of Gynaecology at Vancouver General Hospital, to the Head of the Division of Gynaecologic Oncology, and to the Head of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology at UBC.

It is expected that the successful candidate will apply for and hold a clinical faculty appointment in the Department of Obstetrics & Gynaecology at the University of British Columbia. As a clinical faculty member, the successful candidate will be expected to involve learners in clinical activity, and participate in program development and student evaluation.

Applicants must be eligible for registration with the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia, be a Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada or equivalent and be eligible to hold a clinical faculty appointment at UBC.

The anticipated start date is August 2018 though an earlier start date can be accommodated.

The University of British Columbia is a global centre for research and teaching, consistently ranked among the top 20 public universities in the world and 3rd largest university in Canada with an economic impact of 12.5 billion to the provincial economy. Since 1915, UBC's West Coast spirit has embraced innovation and challenged the status quo. Its entrepreneurial perspective encourages students, staff and faculty to challenge convention, lead discovery and explore new ways of learning. At UBC, bold thinking is given a place to develop into ideas that can change the world. As one of the world's leading universities, The University of British Columbia creates an exceptional learning environment that fosters global citizenship, advances a civil and sustainable society, and supports outstanding research to serve the people of British Columbia, Canada and the world.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit, or Indigenous person. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.
