

Fred Bryans Director of Clinical Teaching

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology, University of British Columbia, is seeking applications for the Fred Bryans Director of Clinical Teaching (FBDCT) administrative position.

Dr. Fred Bryans was an outstanding academic clinician and researcher who served as Chair of the UBC Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology from 1959 through to 1978. He was an exemplary role model who placed a value on high quality clinical teaching of the next generation of obstetricians and gynecologists above all else. The Department has since benefitted from strong leadership in education and research activities but has recently realized a need for specific, focused oversight of clinical education.

The Fred Bryans Director of Clinical Teaching will provide support to the Program Directors and oversight for clinical teaching programs to integrate the Department's approach to clinical teaching. They will provide advice, guidance and wisdom to all those engaged in the teaching enterprise. Responsibilities will include:

- Provide advice to the MDUG Coordinator on matters related to clinical teaching in the assigned rotations.
- Provide advice to the Obstetrics & Gynecology Residency Program Director on matters related to clinical teaching at all learning sites within the Province.
- Provide advice to the appropriate Subspecialty Fellowship Program Directors on appropriate aspects of clinical teaching.
- Serve as a resource to the Advanced Training Programs (ATPs) within the Department that provide clinical tutelage and teaching.
- Serve as a resource for all faculty members, (tenure-stream and clinical) who are engaged in clinical teaching in their roles.
- Work with the Department Head to review and act upon all matters brought to the Department through the Office of Respectful Environments, Equity, Diversity & Inclusion (REDI).
- Serve as a liaison with UBC Centre for Health Education Scholarship (CHES)
- Meet with each of the discipline site leads at least once per year to review the environment for clinical teaching.
- Provide a structured presentation at least twice per year including at Province-wide Grand Rounds (Rounds, seminar, presentation) related to exemplars of and innovations in clinical teaching.

Administrative appointments are annual appointments, renewable upon satisfactory review. This position requires a time commitment of 0.2FTE (1 day per week). The incumbent will report to the Head of the UBC Department of Obstetrics & Gynaecology. Candidates must have a current appointment as a tenure-stream or clinical faculty member in the Department of Obstetrics & Gynaecology. It is expected that the incumbent would be a clinician with a focus on health professional education in the clinical setting. It is anticipated that this person will have an appointment in the UBC Centre for Health Education Scholarship.

A letter of application outlining the applicant's research and teaching interests and accompanied by a detailed curriculum vitae should be directed to:

Hannah Sauve, Assistant HR Manager, UBC Department of Obstetrics & Gynaecology

Email: hsauve@providencehealth.bc.ca

Subject Line: Fred Bryans Director of Clinical Teaching Application

Deadline for Applications: 2 June 2023

This position is located within a health-care facility. Therefore, this position requires successful verification of full vaccination against Covid-19 provided prior to the start date, as required by the provincial health mandate.

The University of British Columbia is a global centre for research and teaching, consistently ranked among the top 20 public universities in the world. Since 1915, UBC's entrepreneurial spirit has embraced innovation and challenged the status quo. UBC encourages its students, staff and faculty to challenge convention, lead discovery and explore new ways of learning. At UBC, bold thinking is given a place to develop into ideas that can change the world.

Our Vision: To Transform Health for Everyone.

Ranked among the world's top medical schools with the fifth-largest MD enrollment in North America, the UBC Faculty of Medicine is a leader in both the science and the practice of medicine. Across British Columbia, more than 11,000 faculty and staff are training the next generation of doctors and health care professionals, making remarkable discoveries, and helping to create the pathways to better health for our communities at home and around the world.

The Faculty - comprised of approximately 2,200 administrative support, technical/research and management and professional staff, as well approximately 650 full-time academic and over 9,000 clinical faculty members - is composed of 19 academic basic science and/or clinical departments, three schools, and 24 research centres and institutes. Together with its University and Health Authority partners, the Faculty delivers innovative programs and conducts research in the areas of health and life sciences. Faculty, staff and trainees are located at university campuses, clinical academic campuses in hospital settings and other regionally based centres across the province.

Equity and diversity are essential to academic excellence. An open and diverse community fosters the inclusion of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit, or Indigenous person. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however Canadians and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

med.ubc.ca | obgyn.ubc.ca